	Surfing, writing, and lending a helping hand are the core facets that define me. There's an exhilarating sense of freedom when I'm out on the waves, a feeling that's unmatched. Equally captivating is the world of writing, where I weave words into tapestries of emotions and ideas. Yet, my heart finds its truest joy in assisting others. My affinity for working with kids has been a constant in my life, an unspoken bond that draws me to their innocence and limitless curiosity. Whether I'm guiding, teaching, or simply being there, the connections I form are nothing short of magical. Spending time with my 7-year-old sister and 5-year-old brother is a cherished privilege, as their unfiltered laughter and wide-eyed wonder remind me of the beauty in the simplest moments. In these passions and connections, I find the purest expressions of myself.
